The interior design combines the owners' specific taste and artistic collection with maximum functionality and comfort in every room to be carried out, posing a challenge for the architect faced with integrating the structure harmoniously into its surroundings, while the interior design team breathed life into each corner of the home. The result speaks for itself: a skilful combination of artistic design sensitivity and the exact measure of functionality required to provide optimum comfort in true class. Harmony and balance flows between each space. In the dining room and the terrace for example, Gunni&Trentino skilfully combined made-to-measure pieces with others from brands such as Poliform, Kartal and Antonio Citterio for Mat Alto, from which to enjoy the panoramic views over the Colombian capital. Ensuring the house blended effortlessly into the surroundings was one of the major goals in the project, achieved thanks to the selection of materials, including bricks and various coverings, as well as the layout itself of the construction on different levels. Each last detail, down to the rugs and lamps, completes a home that features several different bathrooms - particularly the impressive main one with colonial windows and views out to the horizon, reached via a large dressing room and a home cinema. It is a dream home that showcases the quality of the work of a Spanish firm that has successfully crossed borders to new markets while retaining all their personality.
